What do I do? ROSE WATER

Rose water is a natural extract that helps improve skin health by impeding the production of elastase and collagenase. These enzymes can deteriorate elastin and collagen, which are vital components of skin structure that affect aging. The gentle and soothing disposition of rose water makes it an ideal alternative to other anti-aging products like retinol, which can irritate even non-sensitive skin.

Rose water also has hydrating properties that can soothe and nourish dry, irritated skin. It can help restore the pH balance of your skin, making it less prone to breakouts and inflammation. Additionally, its anti-inflammatory properties can help reduce redness and irritation caused by environmental stressors like pollution and UV radiation.

CHAMOMILE

Due to its numerous acknowledged benefits, chamomile is a widely known and commonly used ingredient in skincare products. It is a naturally occurring byproduct formed from the chamomile plant, which has long been valued for its relaxing and medicinal effects. Chamomile is a popular choice for people with sensitive or acne-prone skin because of its significant anti-inflammatory properties, which reduce redness, irritation, and acne. Chamomile also contains a lot of antioxidants, which shield the skin from the damaging effects of free radicals, which can result in cellular damage and early ageing. Overall, chamomile is a versatile skincare ingredient with numerous benefits that make it an essential addition to any comprehensive skincare regimen.

What do I do? GREEN TEA

Green tea is a powerful ingredient in skincare products due to its significant anti-inflammatory and antioxidant properties. Its ability to enhance skin suppleness, combat free radicals, soothe inflammation, reduce acne, and protect against UV damage from sun exposure make it an excellent choice for skincare. Green tea's antimicrobial characteristics, thanks to its catechins content, make it effective in reducing acne outbreaks. Additionally, green tea's antioxidants can safeguard the skin from damage and help prevent collagen breakdown, a vital element in maintaining skin firmness and suppleness. Opt for skincare products that contain green tea to enjoy its many skin benefits.

AVERRHOA CARAMBOLA

Tropical fruit Averrhoa carambola, sometimes referred to as starfruit, has grown in popularity as a component in skincare treatments. Antioxidants, vitamins, and minerals are abundant in it, which has many advantages for the skin. Because Averrhoa carambola contains high levels of vitamin C, which stimulates the formation of collagen and lessens the visibility of fine lines and wrinkles, research has proven that it has anti-aging qualities. In addition, it contains tyrosinase, a natural skin lightening agent that helps to reduce dark spots and hyperpigmentation, providing a brighter complexion. Averrhoa carambola also has anti-inflammatory elements that can calm sensitive skin, and its humectants naturally draw in and hold onto moisture to keep the skin moisturised and supple. Overall, Averrhoa carambola is a versatile ingredient that offers significant benefits for the skin, making it a valuable addition to skincare products.
